JIPipe Artifact Manangement and Building Your Own

Artifacts in JIPipe provide a mechanism for managing and distributing external software dependencies, such as Python environments, libraries, and executable tools. Artifacts are automatically downloaded, installed, and configured when required, reducing manual setup and ensuring reproducible execution across different systems. This simplifies the integration of external tools, including deep learning frameworks such as PyTorch, into JIPipe workflows.